What We Do

LBH Consultants are a global search and recruitment company specialising in assisting International companies to employ the right people for the right job across a wide range of commercial sectors...particularly in some of the most difficult and demanding technical disciplines.

For job seekers we provide a friendly, personal and totally professional approach to their search process – the level of which can be difficult to match by other recruitment agencies. In this regard we are uniquely positioned to help candidates to interview and Offer with our International Clients, deal with settlement issues and prepare for the cultural and lifestyle differences that may exist between their home country and living in a new country or continent.

How We Work

Almost without exception our corporate clients comment on our ability to understand their complex and specialised employment needs, LBH Consultants respond quickly to their concerns and questions, follow through on our commitments and be open and honest with them.

We don't try to "bend and flex" candidates to make them fit an employment opportunity. We endeavour to ask the right questions up front to ensure that we fully appreciate and understand the kind of applicants our clients are specifically looking for. That's why we do our best to screen all our candidates to ensure that we hit the mark the first time.

We also have no target or minimum number of placements to make each month or KPIs to reach. Our rewards are our satisfied clients and candidates and because we appreciate the time and costs involved to work with a proven international recruitment consultancy, we are totally motivated and focused on helping our clients succeed in employing only the very best people and getting exceptional value for their money.

Similarly our candidates constantly comment on the professional and genuinely personal way in which they are treated whilst under our care. They acknowledge the lengths we go to in helping them to prepare for their interviews, the thoroughness of our research on the companies we represent, and our follow-up with both themselves and their prospective employers after each interview. Being kept in the loop at all times is important to them. So too is our straight forward, sincere approach and the fact that we do exactly what we say we will...help our candidates to find the right job and fulfill their career goals.
